

FRANCISCO TONG

PARTNER

PROFILE

Francisco Tong is co-head of our Environment practice group. He specializes in mining, environmental, water resources law.

Education

Universidad de Lima – Lawyer
(1998)
University of Dundee, Scotland –
Master’s Degree in Law and Mining Policy (2003)

Practice Areas

Environmental Mining Law
Water Resources

Memberships

Lima Bar Association
National Institute for Mining, Oil
and Energy Law

Languages

Spanish
English

He participates in the development and implementation of the main infrastructure and mining projects in the country. He counsels on environmental and natural resources matters, mining concessions, and administrative and judicial procedures related to said matters.

He has extensive experience in managing permits, licenses and authorizations for natural resources use and/or exploitation. He also counsels on the analysis and structuring of operations related to mining concessions, such as transfer, assignment, option and joint venture contracts.

Francisco has counseled the World Bank on a project to improve mining regulations in the Dominican Republic, as well as in other specific matters related to the mining industry development in general.

He was professor of Mining and Environmental Law at the top universities of the country. He is past president of the National Institute for Mining, Oil and Energy Law.