

MARIA ANGÉLICA MENESES

ASSOCIATE

PROFILE

Maria Angélica Meneses specializes in banking and finance law, project finance, mergers & acquisitions, capital markets and venture capital.

Education

Universidad del Pacífico –
Lawyer (2021)
Harvard Extension School –
Business Communication Graduate
Certificate (2019)
London School of Economics –
Corporate Finance Course (2019)
London School of Economics –
International Law Course (2015)

Practice Areas

Banking and Finance
Mergers & Acquisitions
Project Finance
Capital Markets
Venture Capital, Technology and Entrepreneurship

Memberships

International Bar Association

Languages

Spanish
English

She counsels national and foreign companies on the structure and negotiation of mergers & acquisitions transactions, project and corporate finance operations, stock market issuances, company reorganizations and legal audit processes (due diligence).

Maria Angélica also advises on contractual, commercial and corporate matters and in the venture capital market. She designs the most appropriate legal structure for companies.

She has specialization courses in negotiation, organizational conflict resolution and communication at Harvard University; and, in international law and corporate finance at the London School of Economics. She is the author of articles on specialized web portals. She currently assists as adjunct professor in Commercial Law: Corporations at the Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú.